

Endurance Davis Nears Finish Of Long Grind for New Mark

With less than 24 hours separating him from a new world's record for endurance driving, Endurance Davis, famous stunt man, is now almost assured of reaching his goal of 127 hours' continual driving, started in Atlanta last Monday morning.

All day Friday he was in high spirits and talked readily of happenings of the day. In no way does he show signs of having been wide awake for over a hundred hours. If it wasn't for the fact that his car has signs all over it for identification you would pass him up for just another motorist.

Endurance Davis has proved in this test that a man can stay awake many hours without losing full control of his faculties. The only complaint he has made is that his muscles are beginning to ache and give him a great deal of discomfort, and the only ill effects he expects to have from his grueling test will be stiffness of these muscles, to such an extent that he will be unable to walk.

No detail has been left undone that might cause Endurance Davis any trouble whatsoever. All day today the Atwell & Lowndes funeral home will hold one of their ambulances in readiness for an emergency.

Endurance Davis states that he has received wonderful assistance from the merchants here who are co-operating in this attempt. Three times a day since Monday, he has been the guest of the Pig'n Whistle, at Ponce de Leon avenue and Argonne. Here he received his milk, bread and sandwiches which have been his main diet during the entire run. Pig'n Whistle has seen that his orders were filled without requiring him to stop his car.

The car and special equipment have not given him a minute's trouble. The tires were installed at the Sears, Roebuck & Company station on Ponce de Leon avenue. They are All State heavy duty tires and have run the entire distance. Tires are one of the most important parts of a car and when it is considered that he has covered the distance between Atlanta and Los Angeles, this feat appears even more wonderful.

Obey Bread too has played its part. His bread diet has been Obey exclusively.

He has been supplied with milk from the W. O. Pierce Dairy Company, one of Atlanta's leading dairies. Their milk was tested and found to be pure Grade "A" in every respect. This is the same pure milk fed to babies by so many Atlanta mothers. He has been cared for by the Taylor Drug Company, their services being available 24 hours a day. The proper medicines and rubbing lotions have come from this drug store. The Kneen Optical Company examined Davis' eyes and prescribed a special lens for his glasses. These lenses, Mr. Davis says, have prevented trouble from sun glare and also the glare from lights of an oncoming motorist.

Through special arrangements with the Wellborn Hope, Inc., local distributor for the Rhell Oil products, Endurance Davis has been supplied with gasoline. He reports that he has noted a very small consumption for the Chevrolet six sedan he is driving and expects to finish for an average of well over 20 miles a gallon for the run. This will be unusual because most of his drive has been in traffic.

He has been entertained with a Philco Transistor radio, installed in the car by the Brown Tire Company, local distributors. This automobile receiving set has been one of the sensations of the drive, creating a lot of interest wherever heard.

The Trico Clairson and the Bosch horns installed on the car by the Auto Electric and Magneto Company, have been heard in every section of the city. These horns not only attract, but demand attention whenever blown. Bosch Pyro Action spark plugs are also used in the car, being distributed in Atlanta by this same company. These plugs have certain heat resisting qualities, the porcelain being of special imported clay.

The Primrose Dry Cleaning Company co-operated with a special offer for the week with a two-for-one cleaning feature.

The car he has been driving is the property of the East Point Chevrolet Company, Chevrolet dealers located in East Point. It is a straight stock model with the exception of tires and horn, and has performed without a single mishap of the motor. This car will go on display immediately after the run is finished, which is scheduled for late this afternoon on the parking lot at Sears-Roebuck on Ponce de Leon avenue.

Salesman Arrested.

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 12.—(P) J. R. Cooper, 42, a bond salesman, was arrested today by Crockett Long, operative of the state bureau of criminal investigation, and booked for investigation. O. P. Ray, assistant bureau superintendent, said five $1,000 bonds payable in 1942 were stolen from the Finance Trust Company, of Memphis, and were traced here.

CONTRACT LEGALITY SCORED BY CALDWELL

County Officials Exceeded Authority in Bond Deal, Says Accused Banker.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 12.—(P)—The question of whether or not Hardeman county officials exceeded their authority in executing a bond sale contract with Caldwell & Co. was argued back and forth today in the criminal court trial of the failed company's president, Rogers Caldwell, on a charge of fraudulent breach of trust.

The point was raised by the defense in an effort to show that the trust agreement Caldwell is charged with violating was irregular and hence the county had recourse only to civil action. State's attorneys, however, argued that the county officials acted under authority delegated to them by the county court when they entered into the contract providing for the sale of a $200,000 bond issue to Caldwell & Co.

The defense claimed there was no authority for signing any contract except one in exact accordance with the original proposal. M. L. Partridge, county clerk, the only witness to testify today, said Caldwell & Co. submitted an oral bid and the court adopted a resolution accepting the bid and authorizing the county judge and clerk to enter into a "proper" contract.

A written bid was then submitted. Caldwell testified, which provided that the county, after being paid for the bonds, deposit the proceeds with Caldwell & Co. This proposal provided that the deposit be secured by personal surety bonds.

Partridge said that subsequently, however, the personal surety bonds were disapproved and ultimately a contract providing for the pledging of government bonds as collateral was executed.

The charge grows out of this phase of the contract, the contention being that government bonds were not maintained as collateral and when Caldwell & Co. collapsed less valuable securities were found to have been substituted for the government obligations.

HIGH COURT UPHOLDS LORILLARD ELECTION

TRENTON, N. J., June 12.—(P)—The supreme court today, dismissing an action of minority stockholders, upheld re-election of the board of directors of the P. Lorillard Company, tobacco manufacturers, of Jersey City.

Sixteen minority stockholders, contending the election, held March 10, was illegal in that many proxies were illegally cast, sought a rule to show cause why it should not be set aside. The court, pointing out that such litigation should not be interrupted and placed in a state of suspense and uncertainty, held the stockholders had not pursued their case with "anything approaching due diligence."

FLORIDA LEGISLATOR FREED OF RUM CHARGE

Commissioner Says Arrests Were Made Without Any Provocation.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., June 12.—(P)—Representative Dan Chappell, of Dade county, and two other Miamians were freed yesterday of charges of possessing 12 quarts of intoxicating liquor, in violation of the federal customs internal revenue laws, at a preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner R. B. Marsh here. The case was placed on record today.

The other men were H. L. Allen and W. S. Merritt. The trio was placed under technical arrest at Monticello Wednesday afternoon by H. G. Dietrich, customs border patrolman. Dietrich, records in this case showed, found 12 quarts of liquor in Chappell's car when he searched it after stopping the party en route from Miami to Tallahassee.

Commissioner Marsh announced today that Chappell, Allen and Merritt, arraigned before him at noon yesterday, entered pleas of not guilty to the charge preferred by Dietrich. Dietrich, the only witness to be heard in the case, testified, the commissioner said, that he followed Chappell's car for several miles before stopping it in the belief it answered the description of a car of similar make known to border patrolmen to be a liquor run.

The commissioner said Dietrich testified that he ordered Chappell's car stopped, informed the men they were under arrest and asked to search the car. The officer testified that Chappell willingly gave consent to the search, Marsh reported, and said he found 12 quarts of liquor in the machine.

"The agent made the arrest, in my opinion, without any cause other than he was looking for a new automobile to replace the one in the possession of Chappell's car. He said he had looked for a new car for that description for two months," the commissioner said.

COLLISION SINKS
BRITISH RUM BOATCrew of Ten Rescued by Coast Guard Craft Off
Montauk Point.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 12.—(P)—The British vessel Shuben Acadia, believed by coast guard officials to have had a valuable cargo of liquor aboard, sank today 30 miles south of Montauk Point, after a collision with the coast guard destroyer Darius. The vessel's crew of ten was rescued.

The service craft, which was slightly damaged, was trailing the British vessel when the collision occurred. The Shuben Acadia, formerly the Lucky Strike, arrived on rum row recently. While a complete report of the accident had not been received by customs and immigration officers, coast guard officials expressed the opinion the British vessel rammed the service craft while attempting to maneuver to escape surveillance.

Members of the Shuben Acadia's crew were taken off the vessel by the patrol boat Marion. The Davis reported that the men were being brought here.

The vessel, extensively damaged forward, sank two hours after the collision.

A coast guard board of investigation will inquire into the accident. The master and members of the crew of the Shuben Acadia will be given an opportunity to testify.

J. HAM LEWIS URGES
SHORTER PLATFORM

WASHINGTON, June 12.—(P)—Senator Lewis said today he hoped the democratic party would adopt a platform which "did not contain everything from the Ten Commandments to the Sermon on the Mount."

The Illinois democrat made the statement after calling on President Hoover to explain he would not be at the Springfield dedication ceremonies on Wednesday when the president speaks at the Lincoln tomb. He had a "previous engagement."

Lewis said the democratic platform should be "short enough for a man to write it on a piece of paper which could be held in one hand."

Three planks he suggested were: Promotion of friendship with foreign nations; help business; reduction of taxes by the abolishment of governmental bureaus created to give people jobs; and the transfer of prohibition enforcement to the states.

Puckett went to the scene of the wreck of the plane immediately and completed his investigation. He had no statement as to the cause of the crash. Puckett's report will be filed with the department of commerce.

Distributors of the Frigidaire Corporation in the southeast were in Atlanta Thursday for a conference with J. B. Reeves, southeastern regional manager, and E. B. Newill, of Dayton, Ohio, vice president and chief engineer of the corporation.

Plans were discussed for summer and fall business and an optimistic report was made for the future. Twenty-five distributors were here from Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Tennessee and North and South Carolina.

Mr. Newill, who formerly resided in Atlanta, is sponsor for the south in the Frigidaire organization and sales in this section have led the entire country for the past three months. The sales during this period are also ahead of last year and Mr. Newill reports that production for May ran 43 per cent ahead of May, 1930.

A graduate of Tech High and Georgia Tech, Mr. Newill started his business career in the engineering department of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, at Pittsburgh, and later was placed in charge of the engineering department.

Mr. Newill has been associated with the Frigidaire Corporation since June, 1930, having been transferred to this from the General Motors Radio Corporation, with which he became connected at the time of its organization.

Concerning the business outlook for 1931, Mr. Newill is very optimistic. He said that Frigidaire was showing improvement and expressed belief that conditions in general were looking brighter.

VETS' CHIEF APPROVES
RETIREMENT BENEFITSHines Announces Mitchell's
Ruling on Opinion by Ex-
Attorney General.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—(P)—Veterans' Administrator Hines said today Attorney-General Mitchell had upheld the opinion of former Attorney-General Sargent relative to compensation payable under the emergency officers' retirement act.

Sargent, on January 18, 1929, ruled that retirement benefits were payable in the following classes:

Cases wherein the disabilities have been connected with the service during the World War under the statutory presumption of service origin for tuberculosis, neuropsychiatric and other specified conditions contained in the World War veterans' act or the war risk insurance act.

Cases wherein the disabilities have been connected with the service during the World War through direct evidence, as for instance medical records of the army, but in which nothing tangible can be found under which a finding that the disabilities were directly the result of war service can be based.

Cases wherein the disabilities have been connected with the service during the World War under a presumption of soundness contained in the war risk insurance act and the World War veterans' act, as they are amended.

Cases wherein a disability was noted at time of enlistment which increased in degree during service, but wherein it has been impossible to show that the aggravation was directly the result of war service and in line of duty as distinguished from the natural progress of disease.

In addition to Messrs. Newill and Reeves, other prominent executives attending the conference were: H. C. Jamerson, of Dayton, sales manager in charge of product distribution, and L. A. Clark, of Dayton, assistant sales promotion manager.

New Editors' Head Lauds Georgia
As Group Concludes Tour of State

Members of the National Editorial Association terminated their forty-sixth annual convention tour of Georgia Friday night when they returned from Press Haven, where they were entertained at luncheon after a motor trip from Gainesville. Friday night they were en route to their homes in all parts of the United States.

Among those to return to Atlanta after the eight-day tour were L. M. Nichols, of Bristow, Okla., newly-elected president of the association; Mrs. Nichols and H. G. Spalding, of Shawnee, Okla. Mr. Nichols was extremely enthusiastic over the convention and the trip through the state.

"We have made a host of new friends in Georgia," the president said Friday night. "Time and again I have heard members who voted against holding the forty-sixth annual convention in Georgia say that they were never more surprised than at the wonders of this state."

"From north to southern extremities of the state we found remarkable hospitality, and more than one member of the party was amazed to find the unusual opportunities offered for investment in Georgia. Not only have we been served with the most glorious fried chicken and other truly Georgian delicacies, but we have been entertained in a most royal manner."

Mr. Spalding likewise voiced his impressions. He said that he had been informed of Georgia hospitality, but that the kind that was extended the nation's editors surpassed all the reports he had previously received.

Mr. Spalding spoke highly of The Atlanta Constitution and mentioned particularly the fact that it was in evidence in all sections of the state. En route by motor between Gainesville and Cornelia today, the party encountered an unusually heavy hail and rainstorm. Mr. Nichols said. The hail was so deep along the highways that it covered the ruts and ditches. The party therefore adopted the song, upon reaching Press Haven, "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here."

SERIOUS RIOTS FEARED
IN STRIKE OF MINERS

PITTSBURGH, June 12.—(P)—Sporadic demonstrations designed to enlist recruits to the cause of mine strikers in western Pennsylvania continued today, and Vincent Kernenovich, district secretary of the National Miners' Union, predicted serious consequences "unless the coal company officials change their attitude."

Men and women marched near six mines in the Pittsburgh district. Five women who disobeyed the orders of Sheriff Robert S. Cain, in taking part in the demonstrations, were arrested. A deputy sheriff was under arrest for wounding a man at Gallatin. The victim, Lawrence Shaw, 50, was reported to be in a serious condition.

Kernenovich said miners who attended a mass meeting at Walkersville today were armed.

"Unless there is a radical change, we union officials will no longer be responsible for the miners' actions," he said.

UNCERTAINTY PREVAILS
IN OHIO STRIKE AREA

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio, June 12.—(P)—An atmosphere of uncertainty tonight pervaded the coal mining regions of Jefferson and Belmont counties, where scores of sheriff's deputies were armed with machine guns and tear gas bombs to prevent repetition of disorders that have marked a week-old strike of more than 1,300 miners.

The miners seek an eight-hour day, abolition of the "average system" and reinstatement of miners they claimed were dismissed because of union affiliations.

Although the situation remained quiet during the day, numerous pickets continued to patrol the pits and succeeded in persuading about 10 per cent of the workers to leave the new Lafferty mine of the M. A. Hanna Coal Company, where officers repulsed several hundred strikers in last night's disorders.

MISTRIAL DECLARED
IN MIAMI BANK CASE

MIAMI, Fla., June 12.—(P)—A mistrial was on court records today in the case of two former officials of the closed Bank of Bay Biscayne after a criminal court jury failed to agree on a verdict.

The former bank officers, James H. Gilman, former president and his brother, E. W. Gilman, former head of the bond department, were charged with causing a report to be issued listing certain bonds as costing $31,000.25 when the state alleged the actual cost was $22,273.

The mistrial was ordered by Judge E. C. Collins last night when the jury reported it had been unable to reach a verdict after deliberating more than seven hours. The trial was started May 25.

2 VIRGINIA STUDENTS
KILLED IN ACCIDENT

LOVINGSTON, Va., June 12.—(P)—Ester Howard, University of Virginia student, and Garland Vaughan Jr., who had just been graduated at Washington & Lee University, were killed last night in an automobile collision on the state highway between Lovingsston and Colleen. Ben Bellitt, University of Virginia student, was injured and taken to the university hospital at Charlottesville. All three were residents of Lynchburg.

The three young men were riding in a roadster that collided with a sedan driven by John Wheeler Jr., of Arrington, who was not injured. The students' car turned over.

Remuneration Refused
By Hero of Boat Crash

LOS ANGELES, June 12.—(P)—It pays to be a hero, as a rule, but Charles Hodge, radioman, first class, of the U. S. S. Louisville, doesn't want any remuneration for what he did.

When the steamer Harvard, coastwise liner, crashed on shoals at Point Arguello the night of May 30, it was Hodge who picked up the SOS call that drew the cruiser to the rescue.

Today it was revealed two Hollywood motion picture studios had made offers to him to join their sound production staffs. In addition, many of the passengers, all of whom were taken aboard by the Louisville, have opened their homes to Hodge and some have offered use of their automobiles to him when on shore leave.

"I didn't do anything but my duty," said the radioman, a bit embarrassed. "And I'm sticking with the navy."

Mothers: Look for these important words:

MILK BREAD

1. They are your protection against false claims
2. Their use is restricted by State and Federal Governments
3. They are your proof that Merita Milk Bread contains milk solids in proportions normal for WHOLE MILK

ONLY bread that is enriched with the full food-value of whole milk can be called "Milk Bread." The Federal Government and the State Government both have set up stringent regulations defining the difference between plain bread and nourishing, health-building milk bread.

The United States Department of Agriculture, charged with the enforcement of the Federal Food and Drugs Act, has control over the use of the words "Milk Bread" in advertising, and—together with State Authorities—can act to prevent any use of the term where whole milk is not used in accordance with the standards set up.

That ruling is your protection against false claims. It is a clear-cut basis on which you may choose the bread that will build up the strength and the energy of your family. It is a safeguard which tells you definitely that the Government officials have examined bread that is so advertised, and declared it in full conformance with the regulatory definition.

To make sure that everyone shall clearly understand in which class Merita Bread belongs, it will be called "Merita Milk Bread" from now on.

Look for Merita Milk Bread at your grocer's. Ask for it by name. Be sure you get what you ask for.

BOARD TO RECEIVE UNION SCHOOL PLAN

Fulton-DeKalb Metro- politan Project Is Offer- ed by Johnson.

Consolidation of every school system in Fulton and DeKalb counties into one, administered by a board of seven, empowered to levy a tax on a per capita school population basis, will be proposed at the next meeting of the Atlanta board of education, it was announced Friday by Commissioner C. O. Johnson, of the eleventh ward.

The Johnson plan provides for several alternatives, but the largest one includes all of Fulton and DeKalb counties.

Details of the scheme follow:

"1. Form a metropolitan school district composed of Fulton and DeKalb counties, including all municipalities therein, or

To be composed of Fulton county and that part of the city of Atlanta lying in DeKalb county, or any part of the above territory which includes all of the city of Atlanta.

"2. Said district to be under the control of a general board of education composed of seven members elected by the people at the next general election, two of said members to be elected from DeKalb county, two from Fulton county, and three from the district at large.

"3. Said board to have power to levy a tax for school purposes not to exceed $100 and not to exceed $100 per pupil per year, this tax to be apportioned according to the regular tax return or assessment of the taxpayers and collected by the various tax collectors within the district, and turned over monthly to the treasurer of the school board.

"4. It is proposed that each of the school districts within this district may, by popular vote, fix the school tax rate within their limits.

"5. Said board shall elect a chairman from its membership and a secretary and treasurer outside of its membership. The salaries of the secretary and treasurer must be fixed within reasonable limits by the board.

"6. Each member of the board shall have a salary commensurate with the salary of $50 per month, except the chairman, whose salary shall be $100 per month.

"7. The total school property now located or hereafter located within the district, both real and personal, shall vest absolutely in the board of education, and said board shall have full authority to buy, sell, own and hold real estate for educational purposes only.

"8. All of the various present school systems within the limits of this district shall continue to operate until July 1, 1932, when the new board of education shall become operative."

ARMS SHIPMENTS TO CHINA BARED

Washington, was said by department officials tonight to effect no change in policy.

It was described as merely a temporary substitution of one official channel of application for another.

Under-Secretary Castle said several licenses for export had been granted upon China's request. He added that if future requests came through the American legation in Chungking, they would be known to be bona fide and would be acted on in the same way as if they were received through the Chinese legation here.

The procedure as described by the under-secretary as a routine matter, state department officials believing the important point to determine was whether the requests were actually from the Nanking government.

Rapid developments in the Canton-Nanking situation, linked directly by Dr. Wu with his resignation, are being watched by state department officials on the basis of dispatches received from the American legation at Peking and the American consular agencies in China.

It has been pointed out that much information from China on political movements has been based on rumors and reports, which in many cases must be discounted because of their apparent source.

NATIONALISTS REPORTED SEEKING TO AVERT WAR

HONGKONG, June 12.—(AP)—Information received today from Canton said the nationalist government has extended the olive branch to leaders of the insurrection there and offered concessions in an effort to avert civil war.

As peace measures, the Nanking officials were said to have proffered Canton its own political council, and to have suggested appointment of Wang Ching-wei, rebel leader, as president of the executive bureau of the new "national" government at Canton.

Three Women in Group Given Prison Terms as Agents of Russia.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, June 12.—(AP)—Thirty-four persons, including two army officers and three women, were given heavy sentences today after being convicted by a court-martial of charges spying in behalf of Russia. The trial lasted 45 days.

Major Vazara, whom the prosecution declared was the chief culprit, sentenced to 20 years' penal servitude and dismissed from the army. His offense was alleged to have been to supply details about the Rumanian army at a fixed salary.

Five others were sentenced to 15 years' imprisonment; two to 12 years, six to ten years and the others to varying terms from eight to one year. One woman was sentenced to six years.

Six of those acquitted, including one officer, were acquitted. At the time of their arrest, one of the prisoners told police investigators that the espionage organization had obtained funds, and that the budget for 1930 amounted to $400,000.

The police said they found a complete telephone station and photographs of military importance when they searched the premises of one of the prisoners. Most of the arrests were made last October.

WATER RATE VOTE PLAN ABANDONED

port to any "equitable and fair plan to raise school funds" but asking that if referenda are necessary that they be deferred until the school year begins. No such action was taken. The plan might be placed on the ballot.

"White to Fight Any Hike," Fulton county already are committed against removing the restrictions on water rates. McKee said, "That is a question which should be decided by the voters. Atlanta should not use its waterworks department as a profit-making enterprise."

"We don't do it," Eckford asserted. "Mr. McKee and I are working harmoniously in an effort to solve the financial difficulties of the school system, but raising the water rates is unnecessary and should not be done. When our plans are completed, we will announce them to the public."

The legislature will not take the proposed increase in water rates, McKee reiterated. "I think this water rate raise is a dead issue. We should begin by cutting down on the expenditures of the school system. There are many economies which might be effected."

"I will fight any plan to raise water rates as I have in the past," White said.

"The Atlanta council is exceedingly inconsistent. It now is fighting to prevent an increase in gas rates, and now it is fighting to prevent a municipally-owned and operated electric plant. If it owned all the utilities it would be trying to raise the rates for all of them if present actions of certain members are taken as a barometer of what might be expected. We do not need a water increase. We need to cut down expenditures."

Members of the charter revision committee will pass on the latest effort of the finance committee to raise water rates before the meeting of council Monday, when it is expected that the paper will go to the floor of that body.

If it is approved, the council would not be restricted as to the rates charged for water, and could levy 25 percent more. The council could also like the price 50 percent or any other figure.

Text of the resolution passed by the finance committee follows:

"Whereas it will be impossible for the city of Atlanta to continue to operate the schools during the remainder of the year without additional funds, and

"Whereas, a restriction on the water rates prohibits council from raising any additional money from that source;

"Therefore be it resolved, by the Mayor and general council of the city of Atlanta, that the representatives of the city of Atlanta in Fulton and DeKalb counties, and the respective senatorial districts be requested to amend the charters of the city of Atlanta so that the restrictions upon the mayor and council in the matter of fixing rates for water."

"The resolution would merely express the desire of the council would like the legislature to do," said Alderman J. Charlie Murphy, chairman of the finance committee. He pointed out that if the restrictions on the city in regards to handling its water rate are repealed that the proposed 25 percent hike in water rates could be levied and the money thus obtained, diverted to the school deficit so that the schools may be enabled to operate for the remainder of the year.

At the meeting, Alderman Alvin Richards expressed his opinion that the proposed hike in the water rate was purely a matter for legislative concern. "It is the business of the city solely," he said. "We should ask the legislature to take care of it and then let us fix our own rate."

A. Steve Nance, president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades, spoke briefly, stating that the organization pledges its support to any constructive plan the finance committee adopts.

Richards asked him if he approved the water hike measure. "If it is adopted we are in favor of it," was the reply. Paul Lindsey, representative of DeKalb county, expressed his willingness to meet with the committee at any time, but offered no other comment.

Amusement Levy Beaten. Fear that a 10 per cent amusement tax would force small neighborhood theaters out of business, and thus take away the only recreation a certain class of Atlantans enjoy, caused the charter revision committee to address the water hike measure.

The proposed measure would have placed a 10 per cent tax on all theaters, motion pictures, football, basketball, boxing and other amusements. The committee advised the proposal Friday when a number of persons in motion picture theater owners stated that their neighborhood shows were struggling for existence, and that any such tax would force them to cease operation, or to place the burden on the school for political reasons. Commissioner J. Ira Harrell, fought in the board session to prevent that body from taking any action which would place the board in a position of championing any referendum to force a water rate raise.

Harrell's speech was made before the action of the finance committee later in the afternoon abandoning the proposed referendum.

W. L. Henry and W. M. Simpkins Friday were indicted by the Fulton county grand jury on a charge of burglarizing the store of J. M. Harrison & Company, Inc., at 111 Ivy street, and also on a charge of possessing burglar's tools.

TENNESSEE LAWYERS

JACKSON, Tenn., June 12.—(AP)—Repeal of the eighteenth amendment was recommended in a report prepared for delivery today to the annual meeting of the Bar Association of Tennessee by the committee on jurisprudence and law reform. Repeal of the seventeenth amendment providing for election of United States senators by popular vote also was asked.

and the schools are being used as a buffer by council and is forced to absorb the school expenses.

"Any person who will investigate the salaries paid to policemen and firemen as compared with college trained teachers, will find that the teachers are receiving too little for their services. The sole burden for the financial condition of Atlanta is not on the board of education."

"As a matter of fact, if this referendum is placed before the people, the board will be assuming the responsibility for the increase. If there is any reaction, the board will be forced to absorb it. I am willing to support a paper with the water rate raised, but I want it so arranged that we will not have to do even that much again. I oppose a raise in water rates."

Dr. J. Baird, commissioner from the seventh, pointed out that Acting Mayor G. Everett Millican opposes the water raise and he is a "powerful politician."

Most of the arrests were made last October.

Tells Committee Work.

W. W. Gaines, president of the school board, told members of the finance committee that he had a special school commission composed of Walter Rich, chairman; T. L. Elder, himself, E. R. Sweet, Marion Smith, J. M. Harrison, J. C. Murphy, and Ed A. Gilliam, its work and made the following statement regarding the school board:

"In this connection it will be well to review for the board and education has put forth during the year by way of economies. In the beginning when the budget was being prepared for the year, and at length with the mayor and the finance committee.

"Facing a general lack of funds in all departments and realizing that relief must come from the school board, the legislature and hoping that the legislature would come to our assistance, the mayor and the members of the finance committee considered it enough to allow the school board to proceed with a tentative budget without being required to cut its appropriation to the amount of money in sight at the particular time. So it was with the tacit approval of the city officials that the school board proceeded as it has done in the operation of the school system."

"It was understood, too, that the board of education would itself seek to effect all possible savings in view of the general attitude of the mayor and city council, and the board of education has been under a double obligation, first to keep faith with the mayor and general council, and, secondly, to the board of education, now under the secretary of state, and the insurance department, now under the comptroller general, under the secretary of state.

"Establishment of an economic board to have entire supervision over the Milledgeville, Alto and Gracewood institutions, and probably the boys' and girls' training schools. Control of Gracewood and Alto, under this plan would be divorced from the state board of health.

"Abolition of the department of public welfare and transfer of its activities to the economic board.

"Creation of a board of regents to administer the state university system.

"Abolition of the state board of entomology.

"Consolidation of the forestry, geology and fish and game departments under a new department of natural resources.

Board of Service Board.

In addition the committee is giving consideration to suggestions that the present public service commission of five be reduced to three members, to be elected biennially. The commission, under this plan, would be paid direct from the general treasury fund.

Recommendations for other consolidations are taking shape, it is understood. In its final draft, if legislative approval is given, a number of offices now elective may become appointive.

Irene Castle Defeated In Tilt With Farmer

MORTON GROVE, Ill., June 12.—(AP)—A jury today denied Irene Castle McLaughlin's demand of a judgment for $10,000 against a farmer, who put her off her premises.

The farmer was acquitted of discreditable conduct in the court of Justice A. J. Sengstack.

"I want to see him in my capacity as investigator for the human department," she testified. "He used words that I couldn't repeat and pushed me backwards for about 30 feet, stepping on my toes and cursing all the while."

"A man's home and farm is his castle," said defense attorneys.

and the schools are being used as a buffer by council and is forced to absorb the school expenses.

"Any person who will investigate the salaries paid to policemen and firemen as compared with college trained teachers, will find that the teachers are receiving too little for their services. The sole burden for the financial condition of Atlanta is not on the board of education."

"As a matter of fact, if this referendum is placed before the people, the board will be assuming the responsibility for the increase. If there is any reaction, the board will be forced to absorb it. I am willing to support a paper with the water rate raised, but I want it so arranged that we will not have to do even that much again. I oppose a raise in water rates."

Dr. J. Baird, commissioner from the seventh, pointed out that Acting Mayor G. Everett Millican opposes the water raise and he is a "powerful politician."

Most of the arrests were made last October.

Tells Committee Work.

W. W. Gaines, president of the school board, told members of the finance committee that he had a special school commission composed of Walter Rich, chairman; T. L. Elder, himself, E. R. Sweet, Marion Smith, J. M. Harrison, J. C. Murphy, and Ed A. Gilliam, its work and made the following statement regarding the school board:

"In this connection it will be well to review for the board and education has put forth during the year by way of economies. In the beginning when the budget was being prepared for the year, and at length with the mayor and the finance committee.

"Facing a general lack of funds in all departments and realizing that relief must come from the school board, the legislature and hoping that the legislature would come to our assistance, the mayor and the members of the finance committee considered it enough to allow the school board to proceed with a tentative budget without being required to cut its appropriation to the amount of money in sight at the particular time. So it was with the tacit approval of the city officials that the school board proceeded as it has done in the operation of the school system."

"It was understood, too, that the board of education would itself seek to effect all possible savings in view of the general attitude of the mayor and city council, and the board of education has been under a double obligation, first to keep faith with the mayor and general council, and, secondly, to the board of education, now under the secretary of state, and the insurance department, now under the comptroller general, under the secretary of state.

"Establishment of an economic board to have entire supervision over the Milledgeville, Alto and Gracewood institutions, and probably the boys' and girls' training schools. Control of Gracewood and Alto, under this plan would be divorced from the state board of health.

"Abolition of the department of public welfare and transfer of its activities to the economic board.

"Creation of a board of regents to administer the state university system.

"Abolition of the state board of entomology.

"Consolidation of the forestry, geology and fish and game departments under a new department of natural resources.

Board of Service Board.

In addition the committee is giving consideration to suggestions that the present public service commission of five be reduced to three members, to be elected biennially. The commission, under this plan, would be paid direct from the general treasury fund.

Recommendations for other consolidations are taking shape, it is understood. In its final draft, if legislative approval is given, a number of offices now elective may become appointive.

WINDLER'S COUNSEL ASKS SANITY HEARING

DETROIT, June 12.—(P)—Alex F. Lewis, who confessed that he stole $207,000 of public welfare funds because he wanted to be a "big shot," stood in recorder's court today and heard his attorney ask that a commission be appointed to determine his sanity.

Action on the request was withheld. Lewis stood mute and a plea of not guilty was entered for him. His examination was set for next Tuesday and his bond fixed at $250,000.

Charles J. McCormick, who, like Lewis, formerly was employed as a counter clerk in the welfare department and who also admitted stealing department funds, was arraigned this forenoon. He stood mute and his bond was fixed at $5,000.

for the Famous*"Endurance" Davis

Nears the Completion of His 127-Hour Run Without a Single Tire Mishap! Approximately 2,500 Miles!

No wonder "Endurance" Davis chose Allstates for an endurance run! 8,000,000 motorists have turned their backs on their old tire favorites and changed to Allstate. They recognized the biggest money's worth in the tire world.

Of course, there is a reason for such leadership. ALL-STATE is deliberately made a better tire. It was designed by America's foremost tire engineers, and made according to Sears, Roebuck's rigid specifications, by one of the world's most successful tire manufacturers. Then it is brought directly from the factory to you by our own system of mail order houses and retail stores—at one modest profit. No wonder then it gives extra miles of service—yet costs a full 25 per cent less than any tire worthy of comparison.

GAS TAX DIVISION BILL APPROVED IN FLORIDA

House Passes, Sends Bill to Senate; Luxury Levy Action Postponed.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., June 12.—(P)—The Florida house today solved its problem of gasoline distribution but fell into a new wrangle, this time over a bill to increase motor vehicle license fees for the benefit of schools.

Another feature of the day was a vote to indefinitely postpone a bill to tax luxuries.

Voting 84 to 7, the house passed a gasoline revenue distribution bill, introduced by sixty-six representatives, today as the result of a long-drawn fight between a majority bloc of small counties and a minority bloc of large counties.

The bill, as passed and sent to the senate, divides gasoline revenue as follows: Three cents to the state road department; one cent to counties on the basis of area; one cent on the basis of population; one-half cent on the basis of assessed property valuation, and one-half cent on the basis of the mileage maintained by the state road department as of June 1, 1931.

Leaders of the majority and minority blocs signaled the end of the large and small county war over gasoline revenue distribution by speaking in favor of the new bill.

FAITHFUL DEATH
REMAINS RIDDLE
TO AUTHORITIES

said Faithfull "would have done had he known its contents?"

Who is "Joseph Collins," found in a Manhattan hotel with her when she was sent to Bellevue?

Who and where is "Mike," a man police said often was seen with her?

Does the prosecutor know of a motive which supports his view that Starr was murdered?

Did Tucker Faithfull keep a diary; if so, does it in any way coincide as to persons and places with her sister Starr's?

Did Tucker and Starr go on parties together and has Tucker identified some of Starr's companions?

Not Revealed.

The whereabouts of Starr between Friday morning when she left her home and the time her body was found have not been in any degree revealed.

If no member of her family knows where she went, or with whom, an important link in the investigation is missing until the police find some person who admits, or is proven to have been with her, during that interim.

The theory of the Nassau county authorities is that the persons whom she intended to meet on Friday have definite knowledge of her fate.

The prosecutor mentioned persons "socially and professionally prominent" who would have been glad if Starr were out of the way but this far their identification has not been accomplished.

TAXI TRAIL LEADS TO ANOTHER BLANK WALL

MINEOLA, N. Y., June 12.—(P)—The wandering trail of a taxi carrying a girl dangled by a rope from a ledge of a building, which led to the discovery of her body in the Starr Faithfull case.

The trail's end was a corner drug store in far Flushing, where a four left his disheveled fare last Thursday night after driving for hours from the Chamin building, in Manhattan.

Had this girl been Starr Faithfull, acid manufacturer's daughter, whose scantily clad body was taken from the surf at Long Beach last Monday under circumstances indicating murder, the Nassau county authorities would have been nearing the end of their quest for her slayers.

Richard Findley, elevator starter in the Chamin building, looked at the body in a crematorium and said he believed it was Starr. A policeman who was summoned because of the girl's actions in the Chamin lobby, thought it was, but said the body was clad in a different dress.

Father Denies It.

Stanley E. Faithfull, the girl's stepfather, denied it, as did her mother, Mrs. Starr, at home at that time, they said. Inspector Harold R. King, of Nassau police, cast doubt on it because "so many people look alike."

Sy Bockman, the chauffeur, who said he drove for hours in a vain attempt to find a vague address in Queens, was to go to the crematorium to look at the body. He told police his fare stopped once during the ride to buy a bottle of "clear fluid" that looked like gin.

District Attorney Elvin N. Edwards, convinced the girl was murdered last Friday by being held under water, and reiterating that several persons prominent socially and politically had reasons to desire her removal, presented all the evidence at his command to a grand jury. The case was presented as the State vs. John Doe and Richard Roe.

Indicting indictments against two men were sought.

The witnesses included a physician who believed the girl was strangled in the surf; her stepfather; her real father, Frank Wyman, wealthy Boston man; her sister, Tucker, whom Edwards described as "very mysterious about her movements over the week-end," and Francis Peabody Hamlin, of Boston, youthful cruise director for the Cunard line.

Mr. Aboard Liner.

Hamlin told of meeting Starr aboard the liner Franconia at a sailing party May 29. Starr stayed too long on the ship and had to be taken off in a tug. A taxi driver who told of seeing the girl land in an intoxicated condition at a pier, was a witness today. He said he gave her a lemon to help sober her. Another chauffeur told of driving her to her home in St. Luke's place.

The Evening Post printed a report today that Starr was in love with Dr. J. Jameson Carr, youthful ship's doctor of the Franconia. The paper said it learned from a woman passenger that once, on an ocean voyage, a stewardess called Carr to attend Starr. Her illness had resulted from drinking, and the physician urged her to give up liquor.

Light was cast on the activities of the girl's stepfather, Stanley Faithfull, today. District Attorney Edwards had said he had been unable to determine the source of Faithfull's income, but inquiry in Brooklyn today disclosed that until last November he was prominent in a company manufacturing acids. From October 1 to November 20, 1930, Faithfull lived alone, except for a dog and cat, in an apartment in West 176th street.

Starr, who has been described as a girl with inflamed nerves, kept a diary, a frank record of her romances. Three men named in this still-bound book were reported today to be awaiting a call before the grand jury.

Volume Missing.

Meanwhile detectives hunted a second volume of the diary. It was not in its place on the girl's bookshelf.

Among the witnesses before the grand jury today were two artists, Harry Stoner and Edwin Megarage, but it could not be learned whether their names figured in the diary.

Marriage of Abe Lincoln's Father
Re-enacted on 125th Anniversary

HARRISBURG, Ky., June 12.—(P)—The wedding in the Kentucky wilderness 125 years ago of Tom Lincoln and Nancy Hanks, parents of Abraham Lincoln, was re-enacted at Pioneer Memorial state park here today.

A coast-to-coast radio hookup broadcast the ceremonies dedicating the little temple sheltering the cabin in which the Civil War president's parents were married June 12, 1806.

Some 5,000 townspeople and visitors gathered on the historic ground overlooked by old Fort Harrod and the cemetery where sleep Kentucky's first settlers. Several spectators were temporarily overcome by the heat during the ceremonies.

William N. Donk, secretary of labor, who delivered the dedicatory address as a representative of the national government, paid tribute to Lincoln's parents and said Lincoln owed much of his strength of character to the hardships of his youth.

The wedding, performed by the Rev. Jesse Head, and the house-warming that followed, were portrayed by Professor Edward Saxon and the Stagecrafters of Transylvania College, Lexington.

The program opened with a pageantry of Harrodsburg's colonial days, this being the 157th anniversary of the founding of the town by settlers from Virginia.

Forty-eight young women carrying daisies represented the states and 13 little girls in costumes represented the original 13 colonies.

A Bible was placed in the Lincoln marriage cabin by Mrs. Donk. After the invocation by the Rt. Rev. H. P. Almon Abbott, bishop of the Lexington diocese, Episcopal church, Governor Flem D. Sampson opened the program. Former Governor Edwin Morrow introduced the representatives of the other states: Dr. Francis Milton Massie, of Lexington, Ky., a native Virginian; George A. Ball, of Munice, Ind., for Indiana, and H. H. Cleveland, Springfield, for Illinois.

United States Senator Alben W. Barkley, Kentucky, described the cabin in the days when it stood in Washington county, where the wedding took place.

Five-Day Statute
Waived To Allow
Society Wedding

GREENWICH, Conn., June 12.—(P)—Difficulties in the way of the wedding of Miss Rhea Logan Munroe and Charles Arthur Moore Jr., prominent society couple of Greenwich and New York, were smoothed out tonight when Probate Judge William C. Runge waived the Connecticut five-day law.

Immediately after his decision, Town Clerk Henry P. Crawford called to the probate court and issued the license.

Tomorrow the couple will be wed in Christ Episcopal church by Rt. Rev. E. C. Acheson, bishop of Connecticut.

Invitations have been issued to 3,500 socially prominent persons of New York and Chicago, while plans have been made for elaborate social functions to follow.

With arrangements made for an elaborate wedding, an upset appeared yesterday when it turned out that Moore, a native of Greenwich and a resident here most of his life, "simply forgot about the law" and failed to apply for a license. He hurriedly appealed to Judge Runge, the only official with authority to waive the five-day provision. The judge appealed to the attorney-general's office for a decision. Tonight he declared the state officials agreed that the law could be waived under the public policy clause.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—(P)—Poland today conferred upon Robert Taft, son of the late Chief Justice Taft, the Order of Polonia Restituta for his services to that country as a member of the post-war American relief administration.

COUZENS WILL SPONSOR
UNEMPLOYMENT BILL

Michigan Senator Also Plans
To Press Move for Higher Taxes.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—(P)—Senator Couzens said today he would sponsor legislation for unemployment insurance and old age pensions operated jointly by the states and the federal government in the next session of congress.

Believing direct operation of either the insurance or the pensions by the government would be unconstitutional, the Michigan senator said there were plenty of precedents for the joint operation scheme.

Couzens also plans to press for increases in taxes, regulation of power other than water in interstate commerce, amendments to the radio act, and further safeguards for railroad supervision by the interstate commerce commission.

"I am not at all disturbed at the effort to discredit the dole," he said. "We have a great many standpaters and reactionaries, who have used the press to try to make out there's something terrible, obnoxious, unthinkable about the dole. When the so-called British dole was initiated, no one could foresee the years and years of depression which have made it difficult of operation. However, none of the critics have offered a substitute for preventing starvation."

TWO MEMBERS QUIT
MACHADO'S CABINET

HAVANA, June 12.—(P)—Two conservative members of President Machado's cabinet today were reported to have offered their resignations as a result of the split between the conservatives and the liberal popular alliance in the congress. The president was said to have refused to accept them.

Eugenio Molinet, secretary of agriculture, and Octavio Avero, secretary of justice, were the men who offered to step out. The president was said to have told them there was no necessity for them to leave the cabinet and he considered their offer to resign merely a formality.

Masked Bandits Rob
Florida Bank of $4,900

CLERMONT, Fla., June 12.—(P)—Two masked robbers entered the Citizens Bank of Clermont at closing time today, held up three employees and escaped with $4,900.

The three employees, Harry Stokes, assistant cashier; George Brady and Paul Fette, were tied hand and foot and shoved into the vault. They managed to work loose from their bonds in about 30 minutes.

Striding into the bank with a .38-caliber automatic revolver in his hand, one of the robbers commanded the men to hold up their hands. His confederate shut the door to the building and stood guard.

Stokes said he saw only one of the men sufficiently to get a description. This man was about 5 feet 6 inches tall, wore a yellow overcoat and yellow glasses. He appeared to have a day's growth of beard. They were believed to have escaped in an automobile.

LUTHERANS ARE URGED TO FIGHT DRY REPEAL

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., June 12.—(P)—Delegates to the Lutheran Augustana Synod were called upon today by their president, Dr. G. A. Brandelle, of Rock Island, Ill., to "resist unto death the return of the legalized sale of strong drinks."

The principal objections to the prohibition amendment, Dr. Brandelle said in his annual report before the 72nd convention of the church body, "are coming from the states that were wet at the time the Volstead act went into effect."

"The whisky men of the dry states have moved to wet states and are defying every law curtailing the liquor traffic."

W. C. T. U. STILL HOPES FOR DRY CANDIDATE

Mrs. Boole Denies Group Considering Third Party.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., June 12.—(P)—The Women's Christian Temperance Union still hopes that one of the two major political parties will nominate a dry candidate for the presidency in 1932.

Denying that the W. C. T. U. had any intention at this time of forming a third political party, Mrs. Ella A. Boole, national president, said today the organization could make no further announcement until both parties had refused to adopt dry platforms.

The national executive committee of the W. C. T. U., holding its annual session here, pledged itself yesterday to work for the nomination and election of a dry president and to throw its influence on the side of dry candidates in all offices, national, state and local.

Today's session was devoted for the most part to discussion of plans for observance of the 60th anniversary of the "women's crusade." It was in 1873 and 1874 that the so-called "praying hands" of women went about the country, kneeling in prayer in saloons. Out of these groups grew the W. C. T. U., which today claims a national membership of approximately 600,000.

The anniversary observance will take the form of a nationwide campaign for the organization of approximately 1,500 new branches of the W. C. T. U. within four years.

Cannon Sues Hearst For Million and Half

LOS ANGELES, June 12.—(P)—A suit for $1,500,000 damages was filed today by Bishop James Cannon Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, against William Randolph Hearst, newspaper publisher; George G. Young, publisher of The Los Angeles Examiner, and The Examiner.

The complaint alleges that Hearst caused to be published in The Los Angeles Examiner and other Hearst publications an article dated "New York, July 22, 1930," concerning the bishop and Mrs. Helen McCallum. It was alleged the article was published for the purpose of conveying the idea that the plaintiff and Mrs. McCallum were guilty of improper and immoral conduct. The complaint asserts the article was false. Damage of $1,000,000 was asked on this count.

The second count, in which damage of $500,000 is sought, alleges that Hearst sent a letter to the plaintiff for the purpose of disgracing and defaming the plaintiff.

BOARD MAY DROP AMBER LIGHT USE

Elimination of the amber lights following the changes from red to green in the synchronized traffic control system of Atlanta will be tried out and if found feasible will be introduced throughout the system, it was decided Friday at a meeting of Mayor James L. Key's special traffic commission.

The point selected is at Ponce de Leon avenue and Juniper streets, A. L. Belle Isle, chairman of the traffic control committee said.

Other major recommendations of the commission are:

1. Establishment of a centrally located traffic court to deal with minor offenses.
2. Retention of the present parking plan for Atlanta as the one best suited to the convenience of the major portion of persons.

The commission decided to give further study to a proposal to establish other one-way streets, and also to a plan advocated by Alderman Alvin Richards that the entire traffic code of the borough be revised, modernized and rewritten.

ALIMONY ORDER UPHELD BY COURT

Whether or not Charles Hefflinger, Atlanta traveling salesman, will have to pay his wife $15,000 in alimony depends upon his ability to convince a superior court judge he is unable to pay, the supreme court said Friday.

Mrs. Cecelia Hefflinger obtained judgment for $37,500 permanent alimony in 1924. In 1930, Hefflinger was brought back here from Toledo and sentenced to jail for contempt. He said to have told ecclesiasts he could pay but wouldn't. He claimed, at a hearing, that he couldn't raise $500.

"If, after a reasonable term of imprisonment," the court opinion said, "the conscience of the judge should be convinced that the defendant is unable to pay, he should be discharged."

$53,000 IS REQUESTED FOR SCHOOL REPAIRS

Board of education members at the next meeting will be asked to approve a $53,000 summer repair program, which has been approved by a special board committee headed by Commissioner S. C. Noland.

Following is the list of contemplated expenditures for emergency work: Morningside school (building second story and other repairs), $29,819; Boys' High, $2,080; Girls' High, $460; Tech. High, $3,780; Brown Junior High, $490; Murphy Junior High, $9,300; O'Keefe Junior High, $940; Smith Junior High, $490; Georgia Avenue, $1,248; Jones, $1,050; Kirkwood, $1,750; McLendon, $2,300, and Smilie, $450.

Already $122,000 has been expended in repairs so far this year.

The parents of the queen of Siam, who accompanied the king and queen to America for an operation upon the king's eyes, are accompanied by their son, N. Svasti, the prince's personal secretary, and two servants. They motored here from New York yesterday. Their plans for leaving the capital were not announced.

BODIES 2 MEN, WOMAN FOUND IN N. Y. WATERS

NEW YORK, June 12.—The bodies of one woman and two men were found floating in waters about New York city today.

The woman was identified as Mrs. Margaret Brehmer, 62, of the Bronx, whose husband, William E. Brehmer, said had been separated from him for 18 months.

Neither of the men's bodies was identified. On one found near Governor's Island, police found papers bearing the name of Stephen Pantes. No means of identification were found on the other, found in the East river.

Redfern Hits Triple in Tenth Inning To Beat Crackers, 4-3

W. L. SHOWS GREAT PUNCH IN NIGHT WORKOUT

By Ed Danforth

Twenty Grand and Jamestown, two of the most talked-of three-year-old colts in recent turf history, race today in the famous Belmont stakes, one mile and one-half.

Only one other starter will go to the post. Sun Meadow, Mrs. Katherine E. Hitt's smart colt, has elected to try for the $75,000 prize with the two stars.

Twenty Grand and Jamestown never have met.

Twenty Grand has won two of his three starts this season. He lost the Preakness to Mate, but won the Withers and the Kentucky Derby. In winning the Derby, Twenty Grand set a new track record for a mile and a quarter and made a show of his field, finishing full of run and good for another quarter at top speed.

Jamestown did not start in either the Preakness or the Derby, but has won his three starts this season in impressive style. His last start was in the Colin purse, one mile and one-eighth, which he won handily in the mud.

Both colts have trained well. They have shown sparkling workouts over a distance of ground. Twenty Grand has shown he can step in the mud as courageously as on a fast track. Jamestown has shown supreme indifference to track conditions.

THE CHOICE?

Twenty Grand is the public favorite at about 4 to 5. Jamestown is second choice at something like 6 to 5. Those who saw Twenty Grand win so gloriously in the Derby cannot conceive of a three-year-old beating him in races beyond a mile. Yet Jamestown this spring has shown those same invincible qualities.

It is a tough choice, yet this column would feel safe in picking Twenty Grand were it not that Jay See See, the veteran turf writer of Nashville, Tenn., insists that Jamestown cannot be beaten. And this gentleman SAW Twenty Grand win the Derby, too. So our selection is made with some misgiving—well, two or three anyhow.

There is a turf adage that in a three-horse race the best bet is the third horse. The odds are usually ample and he has a great chance to slip in while the two favorites are fighting each other off. Sun Meadow is by Sun Briar and won three starts out of eight as a two-year-old. On the face of things, Sun Meadow should be at least a furlong behind the Greentree ace and the Widener star at the finish. But, who knows?

A SANDLOT PHENOMENON.

Speaking of pitching prospects, as no one was at the moment, consider what the scouts are overlooking in Doc Cowart, an Atlanta amateur star.

Cowart is pitching for Grove Park Christian church in the Fulton league and last year was with the Lowrytown Baptist club. He has pitched two no-hit games. His strikeout average is FOURTEEN PER GAME, according to "Jumbo" Parker, league statistician. For two seasons he has been the leading strikeout pitcher in the Y-Church Athletic Association.

Cowart is 21 years old and weighs 150 pounds. He wears spectacles.

Professional scouts should do likewise.

THE NEW GOLF BALL.

Agitation in golf circles grows daily over the new balloon ball which is larger and lighter than the old one. Volunteer witnesses take the stand almost daily and testify the new ball has ruined the game.

A few golfers of standing have said the fat ball was hard to control in the wind—what ball isn't?—and some have cautiously testified that it was harder to get into the cup.

But the loudest objections are coming from the great army of ordinary players whose handicaps run from 10 upward. They say the new ball is terrible and they'll tell you why.

The new ball agitation is so intense now that golf associations are planning to test the ball all over again.

Meanwhile, one suspects that the new ball will behave all right if you hit it well. The new ball simply constitutes the per-cup would have gone down if an old ball had been used and nobody in any locker room can challenge that statement.

ERRATA.

To P. S. W.—It was Tait, not Barnes, who made the error. But why not sign your name. You are among friends.

NOT REALLY!!

The British Ryder cup golf team is reported "cocky" on the eve of their invasion of the States to play our pros. Cocky over having won their own open championship twice in the last 11 years? And finishing sixth behind pros from America, Argentina and Germany?

SAMMY BAKER CHAMBERS WINS ACCEPTS BOUT COLUMBUS MATCH

Sergeant Sammy Baker, of New York, who stopped Ted Goodrich several months ago, just as the Atlanta welterweight fighter appeared to be headed for a championship bout, has accepted terms for a 10-round bout here with Spike Webb, of Miami, Fla., according to Max Abelson, who is acting for Pa Stripling in arranging the fight.

It is planned to have the fight at the city auditorium June 30 and application for that date has been made with the city boxing commission.

"Baker wired that terms were okay today," said Abelson. "Webb accepted the bout before he left the city after a Tuesday fight with Ted Goodrich, in the semi-windup of the Bogo-Latzo fight."

Baker is one of the veteran welterweights of the ring and scored a hit with local fans when he stopped Goodrich.

REDFERN HITS TRIPLE TO WIN FOR TRAVELERS

Sheehan's Error Pays Way for Little Rock Victory.

By Herb Clark.

Little Rock's Travelers kept on playing baseball past the Crackers' night—and won a ball game, 4 to 3.

After the Crackers had scored three runs in the first inning, Shirley Travelers hoped to see his and three runs to match the Crackers. And they held on until the tenth.

And in that tenth, which was one inning too many for the sly Crackers, Redfern, goat on Thursday, lashed a triple to deep right center field. "Powerhouse Jim" Hammond, in right field in the absence of Roy Carle through arm injuries, chased the ball up the bank, retrieved it and threw. Jack Sheehan binked away the sandman—he must have blinked, because one doesn't expect such of Mr. Redfern continued on his journey, bearing death and destruction to the Crackers' hopes.

It had been, all in all, not a bad Friday, 4:56 of the lot were of unfearful—were entertained all the way. Or you might say amused. And Andy Messenger, who for that fourth inning, kept his hits well-timed. He allowed 13, "is true, but well not be his fault. Andy did well.

SOME BETTER.

"Ruff-Tuff" Hughes, Andy's mound foe, did a little better. He fed Mule Shirley one in the first inning, but otherwise breezed through. He gave up only nine hits. He spread 'em out, but he would oomargine—if he didn't like it. He was rough from the mound. And he was tough at it, hitting three singles in four tries and batting in one run.

The home boys got off very nicely for the home boys. After Little Rock had been disposed of with some small portion of trouble in the opening series, Jack Sheehan walked after a pop fly which was sent to Hammond by a single to center field, and to third where French kicked the ball. The error was just a bit on the fielding record, however, as Mule Shirley reached out for one and deposited it just inside the little green fence and which was three runs.

HITS RING OUT.

Jahn singled, and out and Strohm did likewise with two double runs. The ex-Cracker, tripled next and there was two runs. Hughes singled, Whitney home and the count was tied. Whitney home and the count was tied.

Matters rested, with incident, and threats and no danger, until the ninth inning.

Poco Taitt made a gallant effort to retrieve the fortunes of the home side after French had thrown a third strike to the catcher and another to the pitcher. Taitt tried to make a home run, but he was out. The French-to-Redfern-to-Whitney triple, out him down. The two teams closed the series this afternoon, playing at 2:30 o'clock.

nounced two weeks ago, nothing was accomplished.

Dick Dunn was seeking to have the referee run the fight. The commission stubbornly refused.

The air grew heated. Yussell Jacobs, manager of Max the Sitting Bull champion, discovered that there was a lawyer.

Yussell immediately exploded and said that he had king's X on anything said and that he would say nothing more until his lawyer was present.

Edward Schweid, seeking some aid for brother lawyers, said that Yussell was right.

Pa Stribling said nothing at all. He figures he can read and write and if he gets something in writing he will have it.

Things were halted after anger was very near the surface on several occasions. Dunn was unable to find out who would be in authority at the fight. The commission wouldn't answer.

And so with nothing at all accomplished they adjourned in a very angry mood at Dick Dunn, who asked questions that had to be answered yes or no.

One thing was accomplished. It was established that if there is anything dumber than a boxing commission it is two men.

They meet again next Monday.

ARMOUR RETURNS, WAITS START OF 'OPEN'

"Black Scot" Happy; Eager for Big Battle at Inverness.

By Edward J. Neil, Associated Press Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, June 12. (P)—Tommy Armour, champion of Great Britain and Canada, returned today from his latest triumph overseas, eager to tackle the one great world task left to conquer this year—the American open.

As the Black Scot of Edinburgh held the British open title cup in the hollow of his arm while photographers posed him on the deck of the Aquitania, there was no sign this arm was shattered by machine gun bullets during the war. There was no sign he squinted into the talking picture cameras and told how it felt to be Bobby Jones' successor as Britain's golfing ruler, that he was in luck in one eye by the same leaden hail.

"I was lucky to win," he said, his lean, dark face smiling. "It wasn't I that took two firsts but that the rest of the boys took too many. Anyone must be lucky to win a major tournament. I'll do everything I can to make the luck hold at Toledo next month."

Gene Sarazen and Johnny Farrell, like Armour, former American open champions, came back on the Aquitania with the Scot but their versions of the championship play were somewhat different.

"It was the nearest exhibition of golf I ever saw," said the chunky Sarazen. "On those terrible final three holes at Carnoustie he refused to let me see his ball. He was terrible. He set up his score for us to shoot at and we all had a chance to beat him. But one of us did."

Mrs. Armour, who saw the tournament along with Farrell's mother and Sarazen's wife, added another bit to the picture.

"It was an hour and a half when a half dozen players had a chance to beat Tommy, was pure agony," she said. He hid away in the hotel and I brought him reports. It was terrible to see them use up all those strokes on the last three holes but somehow I couldn't exactly cry about it."

Once the subject veered away from the tournament itself, Tommy had several interesting things to say. He talked about the old one, because it sits up here in the fairway, although he admits this is no help to the ordinary player who lacks fine control of the ball. He thinks the new ball will not hurt the scoring in the American open and he believes the British Ryder cup team will give the American group a stiff battle in the southern next week. He says just the opposite. Both agree that Scotland's courses are the most severe they've ever seen.

Atlanta Hoboes' To Chicago Meet

STARS OF TRACK TO CLASH TODAY IN THE BELMONT

Twenty Grand, Jamestown Seek Title in 3-Horse Race.

By Orlo Robertson, Associated Press Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, June 12. (P)—Rivals for the three-year-old championship, Twenty Grand, winner of the Kentucky Derby, and Jamestown, king of the 1930 juveniles, carry their battle of workouts into actual competition tomorrow in the 63rd running of the $75,000 Belmont stakes.

Only Mrs. Katherine E. Hitt's Sun Meadow was left to face the two stars, when the entry list was posted today. But with a fourth place purse of $1,000 there may be an added entry or two before Starter George Cassidy gets the field away on its mile and one-half journey at about 2:15 p. m., Atlanta time.

"GRAND" LIKED.

Whether the track be muddy or fast, Twenty Grand, carrying the silks of Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree stable, is almost certain to be the favorite. Shrewd horsemen today considered the son of St. Germans-Bonus a 4-to-5 proposition on a slow track and even shorter if today's sun and wind dry up the Belmont racing strip.

Backed by a great two-year-old record and sizzling workouts in the mud, George D. Widener's Jamestown is not without his backers. He has proved in trials he can go the route. Even money appears to be a good price on the Widener colt but his odds may lengthen if the track dries out.

If Sun Meadow succeeds in splitting Twenty Grand and Jamestown, it will be almost as big an upset as the 1930 Travers, when Jim Dandy, the 100-to-1 shot, led Gallant Fox and Whirlaway home.

BIG CROWD SEEN.

A crowd of between forty and fifty thousand is expected to pack America's "rueful" turf to see the turf battle of the year. If that many turn out, it will be the largest crowd at Belmont since the Zev-Papyrus race in 1923.

Victory for Jamestown would send the total earnings of the two-year-old titleholder close to the $250,000 mark with a good chance of passing Gallant Fox's record of $228,165 before the close of the season. Twenty Grand has yet to hit $100,000, as he started too late to get into the battle for many of the rich two-year-old purses last fall.

Jamestown will have a decided advantage over his Greentree rival in a bet that he can break from the barrier with the best of 'em, and that is no small item with Linus "Pony" McAttee, the ace of the modern-day stake riders, in the saddle.

Charlie Kurling, a hard-riding youngster with two years in the "big time," will be astride Twenty Grand.

South Carolina Set For State Trapshoot

ESTILL, S. C., June 12.—With Mayor J. M. Tamm declaring June 15, 16 and 17 legal holidays in a proclamation, residents of Estill have prepared a hearty welcome for the trapshooters who will be on hand for the annual state tournament at the Estill Gun Club.

A. T. Davis, chairman of the entertainment, said the new clubhouse and four new traps have been installed to take care of the tournament, which is expected to surpass all former meetings in point of attendance.

The South Carolina tournament is registered with the Amateur Trapshooters Association, governing body of the United States. Champions crowned at the tournament will be eligible to represent South Carolina in the national handicap tournament. A five-man team to take part in the state team race at the Grand American will also be chosen.

The southern amateur golf championship tournament will be played over this course next week.

National Grid Loop Holds Meet in July

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 12. (P)—The National Football League, announced here tonight the annual league meeting will be held in Chicago July 11 and 12.

The 1931 schedule will be drafted and applications of several new members will be considered during the session.

The meeting will be featured by the awarding of the trophy to the 1930 pennant winner, the Green Bay, Wis., team, the only eleven in the history of the league to win the title twice in succession.

(P)—Miss Virginia Hillery, of Philadelphia, defending champion, and Mrs. Marion Jessups, of Wilmington, Del., will meet tomorrow for the women's Pennsylvania and eastern states tennis titles. Four double-headers will be played by the teams of the Y-Church leagues Saturday afternoon as the first half of the split-season race is brought to a close. Three of these twin bills will have a bearing on the outcome of the races, while the other will name the club to lead the second division.

At Decatur, Patillo Memorial meets the Fulton league leaders, Grove Park Christian, Grove Park, one game ahead, and must split to hold on. Patillo Memorial will have a hard time sweeping, as Manager Appling is certain to use the association's strike-out king, Cowart, in one if not both games.

In the Piedmont league, Central Presbyterian plays Oakhurst Presbyterian twice at Almond park, and should they win both they will have a chance to tie the Inman Park Baptist.

Where twin bills are scheduled the first game will begin at 2 o'clock, and with only one game to be played, the start will be made an hour later.

ENGLISH STARS BOUND FOR U. S.

By Leo H. Petersen, United Press Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, June 12. (UP)—One of the largest and most formidable groups of foreign golfers ever to invade this country was on the high seas tonight bound for America where the players hope to add to their golfing laurels by winning the United States open championship and retaining it.

And with no Bobby Jones to stop them, it appears that the invaders have more than an equal chance of succeeding.

Hopes of the foreigners run high because of the comparatively poor showings of the United States golfers on their recent foreign invasion. In only one of their six tournaments did the United States players win a title. The lone winner was Tommy Armour, of Detroit, who captured the British open, most coveted of the foreign crowns.

The golfers who now four of the five other tournaments, together with the British club who came home first in the British approaching and putting championships, and E. R. Whitcombe, holder of the Yorkshire Evening News pro crown, Eric Martin, in Smith, winner of the British amateur meet, is the only tournament winner not among the invaders.

Their best showing made by the Americans was in first; Sarazen in a tie for third; MacDonald Smith and Farrell in a tie for fifth; Horton Smith in a tie for twelfth and Willie Hunter in a tie for sixteenth.

When favorites for the United States open are chosen it probably wouldn't be a bad idea to include Boomer, Allis, Cotton and Whitcombe in the list. As to the Ryder cup the British have chosen their strongest team in the history of the competition for the trophy and the members of the United States team will have to display better golf than they have so far this year to capture the cup.

The members of the British team are Captain Charles A. Whitcombe and his brother, E. R. Whitcombe, Archie Compton, W. H. Davies, Ed. Mitchell, Fred Brown, George Duncan, Syd Easterbrook, Bert Hodson, and Arthur G. Havers. Havers was selected to fill the place vacated by the withdrawal of Herbert C. Jolly. Fred Pignon is the team manager.

The invading group, which also includes Auguste Boyer, of France, are expected to arrive here Tuesday afternoon on the Majestic.

Double-Headers Set in Atlanta.

With all six teams slated to play double-headers Saturday afternoon, the Atlanta league will provide a generous bill to followers of amateur baseball. The league-leader Fulton Park and Cotton Mill outfit, with a perfect record of eight wins, is likely to add two more at the expense of the last-place Standard Oil club, which has won but one game so far.

Games in the Atlanta league will begin at 2 o'clock.

ATLANTA LEAGUE. (All Double-Headers.) Southern Standard Oil vs. Fulton Park, at Fulton Park. Junior Order vs. Postoffice, at northwest Piedmont.

INSTALLMENT XXIX.

No, it was not possible to keep the pearls. For a month, at least, he was still Baron von Gaigern, a somewhat easy-going fellow who kept his company, in debt, certainly, but otherwise reputable. If he left the room with the pearls in his possession the police would hear of it within an hour or two, and his life as a man of leisure was over. He would be hunted down like any other criminal. And this would not suit him at all. The change of circumstance made it impossible to steal the pearls. All he could hope was to be given them if he was patient. I must wait, thought Gaigern, and sighed deeply. His calculations so far were level-headed and perfectly clear. He did not wish to be ridiculous in his own eyes and he hated sentiment. He looked into the glass and pulled a face. Looking at the sleeping Grusinskaya he thought, I'd much rather give you a present, a big one, something pretty and costly, something to rejoice your heart, you poor dear. He pulled the pearl necklace out of his pocket, cautious not to make a sound. It did not please him now in the least. Perhaps after all they were false, in spite of all the newspapers' paragraphs. Perhaps they were not worth half their reputed value. In any case, it cost him little to say goodbye to them now.

Grusinskaya tried to wake up, but she found her head swathed in sleep. The veronol, she thought, and closed her eyes. She had been afraid of waking lately. She dreaded the shock of facing the hard and naked facts of her life. She felt the light of day beat on her closed eyelids, and for a moment she thought she was at Tremozo, where the reflected light from the surface of the lake shone into her bedroom of rose and gray. She decided to open her eyes.

Near the dressing table her sleepy gaze discerned the broad black silhouette of a man outlined against the light from the balcony. He stood with his back turned to her and his legs apart. He was motionless and entirely unconcerned, and his bent head showed that he was occupied over something; but what it was she could not see. Suddenly she was wide awake and remembered everything. Benvenuto, she said to herself, and repeated it in Russian: Zdravaya. He could not hear her say it, for she said it mutely within herself. He stood there, large-limbed and broad-shouldered, and his hands were busy with some object that lay on the dressing table. She sat up with a smile to see what it was.

He was doing something with the case in which her pearls were kept. She distinctly heard one of the jewel cases snap as it shut. She could tell by the peculiar sound that it was the blue oblong velvet case which held the rope of fifty-two pearls. For a moment Grusinskaya could not understand why this snatched her with such mortal fear. Her heart stood still and then gave three sudden, heavy, resounding beats, which she felt painfully all over her body. Her finger tips hurt and went numb. So did her lips. All the while she still smiled—she had forgotten to remove the smile from her lips and there it stayed, though her face was cold and as white as paper. So he's a thief, thought Grusinskaya in a flash. It was an extraordinary thought, mute and final like a cut straight through the heart. She thought she would feel and she longed to do so. But instead, for a second's space, her head was alert with a myriad thought that cut and crossed and collided, and flashed like a fight with daggers.

A crying feeling of having been cruelly ill-used, shame, fear, hate, rage, frightful agony—and at the same time an abyss of weakness that cried out not to see, not to understand, not to admit the truth that cried out for the merited refuge of a lie.

"Que faites vous," she whispered. She meant to cry out, but only a whisper came from her stiffened lips. "What are you doing?"

Gaigern gave so violent a start that his head spun right round. His fright spoke as clearly as a confession. Besides, he held in his hands the cube-shaped case of a ring; the suitcase was open, strings of pearls lay on the glass top of the dressing table.

"What are you doing there?" Grusinskaya whispered again. That her blanched and distorted face smiled as she spoke was pitiful enough. Gaigern, too, understood her at once, and again his pity was so intense that he felt it beat in his temples. He held himself in an iron grip.

"I have come on a wonderful treasure while you were asleep," he said. "What are you doing with my pearls?" Grusinskaya asked hoarsely. Tell me a lie, tell me a lie, her distraught face implored him. Gaigern went to her and veiled her eyes with his hand. Poor creature, poor little woman.

"It was very rude of me to rummage about among your things," he said. "I was looking for some place, or a bauble of some kind, and I thought to myself there would be something of the sort in the little dressing case. But it was your treasures I found. I feel like Aladdin in the cave."

Even her eyes had lost their color and become laden. Now their dark tint came back slowly. Gaigern, to convince her, showed her his right hand which was still bleeding a little. The tension was released and from sheer weakness Grusinskaya let her lips sink on his hand. Gaigern drew her to his breast and held her to his heart. "You silly," he said tenderly, "did you think I had an eye on your pearls?"

"No," lied Grusinskaya. These two untruths formed the bridge which united them again.

"Besides—I never wear them now," she added with a sigh of relief.

"No—but why not?"

"Well, you would not understand. It is a superstition. First they brought me good luck. Then they brought bad luck. And now as soon as I stop wearing them they bring me luck again."

"Do they?" Gaigern asked thoughtfully. He still had a burden of uneasiness to get rid of. The pearls were safely back in their little box of velvet. Adieu, An revoir, he thought childishly. To prove it he put his hands in his pockets where he found all his burglarious implements in a jolting good humor. His spirits rose and he felt perfectly happy. He opened his mouth and uttered a shout of joy. Grusinskaya began to laugh, and at this he went over to her. She seized hold of his hands and kissed them. There was something genuine as well as playful in this submissive gratitude.

"There, it's bleeding," she said with her lips on the little wound.

Just then there came a buzzing sound from the writing table. "The telephone," said Grusinskaya. "The telephone?" said Gaigern. Grusinskaya sighed deeply. There was no help for it, her expression said, as she took up the receiver as though it weighed a hundredweight.

It was Suzette.

"It is 7 o'clock," she announced in her hoarse morning voice. "Madame must get up. There's packing to be done. Will you have your tea now? And if Madame is to have her message it is high time I began. And Herr Pimenov asks if Madame will please call him on the phone as soon as Madame is up."

Madame considered for a moment. In 10 minutes, Suzette—no, in a quarter of an hour you can bring in my tea, and then we'll make short work of the message.

She put back the receiver but held it still in her hand while she extended the other to Gaigern who stood in the middle of the room, lightly poised on the chrome-leather soles of his boxing shoes. After a moment she took up the receiver again. The hall porter replied with a dutiful promptitude.

"Number, please?" he asked smartly.

"Wilhelm 7010. Herr Pimenov."

Pimenov was not staying in the hotel. He was in a second-class pension that a family of Russian emigrants had started in the fourth floor of a house in Charlottenburg.

FOR COTTON IN WFF

NEW YORK, June 12.—(P)—After making new low records for the technical position which led to considerable covering as the market turned upward.

The week's weather news made generally favorable impression on sentiment. It was believed the crop may make fair progress during the week and that its condition has improved somewhat since the end of May, although it

Latest figures indicate that sales of fertilizer tags are still running behind last year. For the month of May they are said to have shown a decrease of 17.2 per cent and for the months, December-May, a falling o of 28.2 per cent. There has been co siderable discussion as to just ho great a decrease this may mean in th use of fertilizer per acre, as there ha been a reduction in the cotton acrea

according to current reports. The reports still show considerable differences of opinion. Three of them were issued during the week, one of the placing the reduction in acreage 8.2 per cent and the other two at 10

93	93	93	reports issued placed the condition
93	92	93	the crop, presumably as of June 1,
88	87	87	67.7 compared with 69.1 last year
80	80	80

One of the weekly reports reaching the trade said the average conditions as of June 8 stood at about 70.2 per cent compared with 73.2 per cent the same time last year and compared this figure with an unofficial average of 74 per cent as of June 2
